and Hamline University

If you're using or are just getting started with Collaborative Literacy, don't miss this special event!

Please join Collaborative Classroom consultants and Collaborative Literacy teachers, coaches, and administrators from across the Midwest to explore how partnering with your curriculum can support improvements in practice that lead to student learning and growth.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY, JUNE 11-12

For all educators (teachers, coaches, and leaders)
using or supporting Collaborative Literacy programs

Focus: These two days of professional learning, networking, and collaboration feature a keynote by author Peter Brunn, a panel discussion with district partners sharing implementation stories, and interactive breakout sessions. Topics range from program overviews and tips for getting started to digging deeper into assessment, conferring, small-group instruction, lesson facilitation, and more.

Fee: $79 includes registration, light breakfast, and lunch for both days.

Register for June 11–12 at <http://bit.ly/StPaulJune11-12>.

Registrants for June 11–12 also have the opportunity to receive one graduate credit from Hamline University. The credit will be available for purchase at the event, for an additional $75.

THURSDAY, JUNE 13

For administrators, coaches, and literacy leaders who are supporting Collaborative Literacy implementations

Focus: On June 13, learn from other leaders about implementation successes and challenges as you deepen your own understanding and gain valuable tools and resources for supporting Collaborative Literacy in your school or district. Hear how others are transforming instructional leadership in literacy through powerful conversations about coaching, equity, collective efficacy, and more.

Fee: $49 includes registration, light breakfast, and lunch on June 13.

Register for June 13 at <http://bit.ly/StPaulJune13>.

LEADERS! Register a team of four or more educators on June 11–12, and we will waive one $49 registration fee for June 13th.
